SWEET ENDING TO SAD TALE AS LEXIE GETS CARMEL BACK

Girl, 8, reunited with pup stolen during burglary

HEARTBROKEN Lexie Taylor was smiling again this week when she was reunited with her stolen puppy Caramel.

The four-month-old chihuahua was returned to the Taylor family on Monday, 12 days after being taken by burglars who ransacked their home in Ladyshot, Harlow.

The theft of the dog, first reported in last week's Star, became national news after the Taylors started an online appeal which saw their Facebook page 'Find Caramel' viewed more than 14 million times.

A leading pet store also offered a £1,000 reward for the pup's safe return.

Then, on Monday afternoon, Lexie's father Richard received a telephone call from a woman who had bought Caramel, unaware she was stolen. She contacted Mr Taylor after watching a television report about the theft.

When Lexie returned home from school, she was overjoyed to find Caramel waiting for her.

THE birthday wish of eight-year-old Lexie Taylor came true when she was reunited with her pet chihuahua.

Lexie spent her birthday on Saturday pining the loss of her best friend Caramel, who was stolen in a raid on the family's Ladyshot home.

In a bid to find their pet, Lexie's parents Tracy and Richard Taylor set up a 'Find Caramel' Facebook page and their posts were shared by thousands of people around the world.

And on Monday, when Lexie arrived home from school, Caramel was waiting for her after she was returned by a woman who had purchased the dog unaware that it had been stolen.

Lexie said: "I was very surprised, but she still remembered me and our house."

Speaking of the emotional reunion, Mrs Taylor, 44, said: "Richard had a call from a lady who said 'We think we've got your dog' and Richard went to meet her [at a location in Harlow] and it was Caramel.

"The lady wanted to remain anonymous and said she 'wasn't that local' and had bought the dog for her family. She was very upset and it was a subdued affair."

She added: "She [Caramel] recognised me straight away and was very pleased to see me, licking my face and everything. At first she seemed a bit nervous, but she has settled down a bit now."

Symptoms

The Taylors got the puppy for Lexie, who has juvenile arthritis, in the hope that it might relieve her symptoms and encourage mobility.

But they were left 'absolutely devastated' after three men in baseball caps smashed the back door of their home and stole the four-month-old puppy during an afternoon raid.

Caramel and the family's other dog, Billy – her father, were snatched by the men as they tried to escape over the back fence.

One of the group dropped Billy after being disturbed by a neighbour who gave chase, but he still had Caramel in his arms.

The thieves also made off with cash and jewellery worth around £1,500, including Mrs Taylor's eternity ring, but left behind an iPad and laptops following the burglary on June 3.

Mrs Taylor said: "Some people will say it's just a dog, but she's part of our family."

National retail chain Pets Corner had offered a £1,000 reward for the return of the puppy, but the person who returned it turned down the money.

Mrs Taylor added: "She's such a little dog. She was born with a tumour on her forehead and has an umbilical hernia which need urgent medical attention."

Caramel has now been booked in for surgery to remove the hernia.

The online campaign has seen the family overwhelmed with support from strangers both in the local area and on social media. It reached more than 15,000 likes and was shared more than eight million times.

Mrs Taylor said: "It's been absolutely amazing. People from across the world have sent such lovely messages, it reassured us and helped to keep us going."

"I want to say a big thank you to everyone who has helped us especially (canine re-uniting service) Dog Lost who were very supportive."

Essex Police are continuing to investigate the burglary.

New CCTV footage in hunt for purse-snatcher

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

DETECTIVES hunting a teenager responsible for attacking an 84-year-old woman and stealing her handbag have released new CCTV of a suspected getaway car.

Dorothy Spriggs was followed by a white teenage boy as she walked home along Old Road, Old Harlow, around 3pm on February 14. The boy snatched her handbag, hurting her hand and leaving her shaken.

He then ran off and got into a black BMW which made off at speed onto Cambridge Road, towards Harlow.

Brave Mrs Spriggs, who has lived in Harlow for 30 years, stepped forward to help the police hunt down her attacker with an interview on the BBC show Crimewatch Roadshow.

Grabbed

She said: "I didn't hear any footsteps. This person must have come up behind me and grabbed my handbag and was off in a split second. I tried to chase him and I screamed. I also swore at him but of course he wouldn't have heard it."

Widow Mrs Spriggs lost her husband to Parkinson's disease 17 years ago.

On the day of the attack she was returning from her usual shopping trip in the town centre.

Mrs Spriggs continued: "I could have been very badly hurt. He could have pushed me down; I could have a broken leg or an arm or anything."

"They got away with about £35 and my keys and a small key ring that had a picture of my husband in.

"I'm a bit apprehensive about going out. Am I going to be all right? Is it going to happen to me again?"

"But I'm determined to go out and not let it stop me."

"But I'm annoyed to think that it actually happened to me and they could do such a thing."

The bag stolen from Mrs Spriggs was purple with copper clasps.

DC Laura Cuthbert, who is investigating the incident, said: "She [Mrs Spriggs] does tend to walk with a stoop and is quite a small lady, so she does look vulnerable."

She added: "The person who committed this offence took the bag that,

Mrs Spriggs being the feisty lady she is, held onto to for as long as she could and she did end up with an injury to her hand."

"She's strong lady, she'll be OK from this," she said.

Police are now searching for anyone who saw a black BMW driving at speed around the time of the offence, or two people acting suspiciously in the Old Road area.

The first is white around 15 years old, 5ft 5ins to 5ft 6ins tall and of average build. He was wearing a grey hooded top and dark coloured bottoms.

The driver of the BMW is described as around 30, slim faced with short dark hair and of slim build.

Police also want any who recognises the man depicted in the e-fit and the man pictured on CCTV to contact them.

■ If you have information that can help the investigation, contact DC Cuthbert at Harlow CID on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

19 illegal immigrants in lorry caught

A GROUP of illegal immigrants who were seen running from a lorry when it stopped near the M11 roundabout at Harlow have been caught by police.

Eyewitnesses reported seeing a large group of people climbing from the back of the vehicle after it stopped on the slip road at junction 7 of the motorway on Tuesday.

Detained

A total of 19 people were detained by police. As the Star went to press yesterday (Wednesday), 13 were being held by Essex Police and the remaining six were in the custody of the Border Force.

An Essex Police spokesman said: "A number of people called around noon to say they had seen a group of 20 people getting out of the back of an articulated lorry and running around the area. We sent a number of vehicles to the scene and 19 people were detained. They are from Eritrea and in the country illegally."

Inquiries are continuing but it is believed they arrived in the UK from France.

One eyewitness told the Star: "I could not believe what I was seeing. The lorry pulled over and around 20 people came running out."

Joyful

"They all looked relieved and joyful to be out. I have never seen anything like this before."

A Home Office spokesman said: "We are addressing the wider problem of illegal migration by increasing joint intelligence work with the French to target the organised crime gangs behind people-smuggling."

Search on for muggers who hit man in the face

A MAN was struck in the face in an attempted street robbery.

The 26-year-old victim was walking in The Hides at about 3pm on Monday when he was approached by three men. One hit him on the side of the head before all three tried to steal his jewellery. They then assaulted him again before running off.

The victim was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital with minor injuries.

Police said two of the attackers were black and the third was of mixed race. All three were wearing dark clothing.

A question of accountability

SIR After reading Cllr Simon Carter's letter in the Star ("Keep taking the tablets", May 4), my initial reaction was it's about time Harlow councillors were handed some of the same medicine that residents have had to put up with for years.

But on reflection, Cllr Carter has been elected by the people of Harlow to represent us in managing our town. What right has the council got in restricting information from him?

I cannot find anything in the Representation of the People Act that allows the council to interfere in duly elected councillors having full information on all council business that would facilitate their ability to represent the people in a fair and equitable way.

The Localism Act talks a lot about engaging, involving and empowering individuals and communities. It goes on to say that we should be able to challenge and hold our council to account.

How can we do that if the senior officers who run our town are not accountable to elected councillors who, at election time, are accountable to local people and their communities?

In my opinion Harlow Council is closed, defensive and outdated. Our town and its communities deserve the council to be run in a transparent, open and accountable way.

We need them to accept that they are ultimately responsible to the people who pay their wages and be clearly accountable for their actions.

Mike Carr
Rundells, Harlow

Benefits of being an MP

SIR I strongly support Robert Halfon when he says there should be a special emphasis on getting parliamentary candidates from low income backgrounds. The poor are the most unrepresented group in Parliament.

Our present MPs, who are insisting on cuts to the benefits of the poor, enjoy a minimum salary of £67,060 and this is to be increased next year to £74,000 and possibly to £86,000 by the end of this Parliament.

On top of this, some enjoy ministerial salaries and many receive extra funding and even hold on to second jobs as well. And then there are expenses and allowances.

The unelected members of the House of Lords can claim £150/£300 per day just for attending when it is sitting.

In fact, when it comes to identifying the groups who gain most from state benefits, Parliamentarians come out far better than most one-parent families, the disabled and council house tenants. If benefits are to be cut then Parliament should be the place to start.

If we have a representative parliamentary democracy then MPs should be representative of the electorate. Salaries were originally paid about 100 years ago only to ensure that those who were too poor to become MPs were given an income. The system needs radical revision.

Being elected to serve in Parliament is a privilege. There is a strong argument that MPs should be paid no more than the

READER photo of the week

Two readers sent in photos they have taken of young woodpeckers which have made their home in Harlow.

The picture on the left was taken by Anne Snell, of Penhurst, Old Harlow. She writes: "I was absolutely thrilled this morning to see this beautiful baby woodpecker enjoying the sunflower hearts in our garden. It stayed for quite a few minutes, long enough for me to rush upstairs and get my camera. The photo even shows the sunflower heart in its beak."

The photo on the right was sent in by David Barton, of Brooklane Field. "My wife spotted this confused young woodpecker clinging to our house," he writes, "It's unusual to get a photo opportunity like this."

If you have a photo you would like featured, email a high resolution copy, along with a description and details of where and when it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Please include your name and address and insert 'Photo of the Week' in the subject line.

Come on, Robert, don't spend valuable time on a passing comment from Mrs Beckham and concentrate on the real issues that count for the people of Harlow.

Stow needs a place to pee

SIR I have got an idea for the regeneration programme for The Stow (Star, June 4). Please can they include public toilets.

Yet again I've just witnessed someone urinating down the service steps by the side of the bakery shop.

I've nothing against them sitting around drinking, even though there is always a pile of beer cans left behind. But to urinate yards from where they sit is downright disgusting.

Other regular places are the trees by the car park, the flower boxes by the side of the library and next to the benches on the field.

Danny Franks

Cabs park on yellow lines

SIR As Leslie Stevens says in his letter about cracking down on parking pests (Star, June 11), Stevens says yellow lines on the road are there for a reason.

So could someone please explain why there are minicab drivers sitting, dropping off and picking up on the double yellow lines outside Harlow Town station?

It causes complete chaos at peak times by blocking the road and makes it a lottery to cross the road.

Use profits to benefit town

SIR I would like to ask why Harlow Council is spending money on revamping the Town Park and Spurriers House, only to offer the cafe out for tender (Star, June 11).

Why doesn't the council run the cafe and put the profits back into the council coffers to spend on other community projects?

average income which could well be means tested.

The argument against this is that fewer people would come forward to be MPs, although I see little likelihood that demand would outstrip supply. Then, we are warned, there would be a deterioration in the quality of MPs. We would lose those members who could get higher salaries elsewhere. Excellent, for they would be the selfish, greedy members who we could well do without.

If there were a sizable number who had to live on the income that the rest of us enjoy, government policies might become fairer and more credible.

Who dumps charity bags?

SIR While out in the Potter

Street/Church Langley area of Harlow I was once again confronted by bags of clothing thrown all over the park bench and in bushes.

With easily accessible charity collections, shops and recycling centres, there is no excuse for this. And who is supposed to clean it up?

Previously, bags that I have left out for a charity on the day of collection were taken off my doorstep. I found some of the contents strewn in the street a week later. Obviously they were of no use to the person who took them.

I will no longer use doorstep collections and suggest that if anyone is thinking of making a clothing donation to a charity they should be aware they may be taken and dumped elsewhere by people who don't care about the environment.

Honours thrill for soccer star and fundraiser

Queen recognises exemplary achievements

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE former captain of the England women's football team and a charity fundraiser were two of the people named in the Queen's Birthday Honours List.

Mark Astarita, who lives in Harlow, receives an OBE in recognition of his work as director of fundraising for the British Red Cross.

And Casey Stoney, who lives in Old Harlow and is currently a member of the England squad competing at the World Cup in Canada, has been awarded an MBE for services to football.

The 33-year-old made her international debut in 2000 and has gone on to represent her country 119 times. She wore the skipper's armband for Team GB at London 2012.

She has spoken publicly about being gay and last year partner Megan Harris gave birth to twins Teddy and Tilly.

Of her award, she said: "I'm really proud. It's fantastic to get recognised in your field of work. I love football. It has been my life.

"I'm not just proud for me, I'm proud for my family and I'm proud for every single person that's ever worked with me in my career because without every single one of them I wouldn't be standing here today receiving an MBE.

"It's an amazing reward. I don't think there's a better reward really. It's amazing for me and amazing for everybody that helped me on this path to get to where I am."

England head coach Mark Sampson added: "It's a fantastic honour for Casey to be recognised for her contribution to women's sport, women's football and English football.

"She has earned over 100 caps, is someone who has represented us at three World Cups and is someone who is still a huge part of our current group.

Ambassador

"Someone who, more importantly, off the field has been a great ambassador for the game and has played a huge part in taking the women's game in England to where it is today.

"The biggest compliment I can pay Casey is there's not one manager in the world who wouldn't want a Casey Stoney in their team.

"She epitomises everything you need to be to be a top footballer. She is a model professional, I've never seen someone train as hard, be as efficient with every bit of work she does, the way she commits to the group on and off the field.

"The one thing she is desperate for is this England team to be successful.

"She deserves this, she really does. She has been a fantastic ambassador and she is a great person. We all love working with her."

Mr Astarita has worked as fundraising director at the British Red Cross for 12 years, during which time he has helped to treble donations.

He has overseen the launch of more than 50 emergency appeals, including those for the 2005 London bombings, the 2011 Japan tsunami appeal and, most recently, the Nepal earthquake appeal.

During his 20-year fundraising career he has been responsible for raising almost £1.5bn.

Plight of families forced to live in overcrowded homes

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of people in Harlow are living in overcrowded conditions while they wait for a bigger council house.

According to figures released by Harlow Council there are 573 people on the council house waiting list who live in 'overcrowded' properties.

There are currently 3,394 people on the town's housing needs register and an average of 123 applicants chasing every property, with some attracting more than 250 bids.

But Harlow Council says the problem is not unique and place blame on the lack of affordable and council housing.

Councillor Rod Truan, portfolio holder for housing, said: "Families classed as overcrowded in Harlow are given priority based on their individual situation, for example the number of rooms and amount of space they have in their current home."

Of the 573 'overcrowded' tenants some live in one bedroom properties while others are classed as having four or more bedrooms, but still requiring more space.

Cllr Truan added: "Following changes in 2013 to the council's housing allocations policy, those in the most difficult circumstances, classed as 'statutorily overcrowded', are given the highest priority when bidding for council housing."

"These households will usually be allocated a home in a shorter period than others on the housing needs register."

"However, there are currently no households on the register classed as statutorily overcrowded."

Fact file

■ Homes are considered overcrowded when they have fewer bedrooms than the national number suggested by the 2003 Housing Bill.

■ 1.1 million out of 23.4 million households considered overcrowded nationwide.

■ Overcrowding is found to be most common among houses socially rented (8.7 per cent) and privately rented (8.6 per cent).

■ Only 2.3 per cent of owner-occupied households were overcrowded.

■ There are 16.1 million households with at least one spare bedroom, while 8.1 million had two or more spare bedrooms.

■ From across the UK Newham had the highest number of overcrowded houses with 25.2 per cent and the East Midlands town of North Kesteven had the lowest with 1.1 per cent.

Source: 2011 Census (Office of National Statistics)

"The council is doing what it can with the resources it has available to provide additional homes to help towards tackling the affordable housing shortage."

Households are classed in three bands of states of overcrowding relating to their circumstances with the most severe, band one, relating to families who are both overcrowded and in a poor standard of accommodation.

There are currently no Harlow households in band one. There are 77 families in band two and 496 in the least severe band three.

"The council has started a programme of building the first council houses in the town in more than 25 years," explained Cllr Truan. "Although we are only talking about a small number of houses being built, the council has ambitious plans to continue the programme in the coming years as part of its top priority."

"The council is also providing new housing as part of regeneration programmes across the town and it works with housing associations to prioritise provision in new housing developments, as it recognises the importance of providing a range of different homes for all residents and those on the housing needs register."

CLLR ROD TRUAN: "The council is doing what it can with the resources it has available to provide additional homes to help towards tackling the affordable housing shortage."

Jean joins other WI members at palace party

PARTY DRESS: Jean Hudspeth went to Buckingham Palace

WITH the Women's Institute celebrating its 100th anniversary this year, the centenary will hold special memories for one member from Harlow.

Jean Hudspeth was chosen to represent the Moreton branch of the WI at a Buckingham Palace garden party held earlier this month.

Branches around the country received an invitation from the Queen to send one of their members to the party to celebrate the WI's anniversary.

Although Her Majesty was unable to attend, other members of the Royal Family including the Duchess of Cornwall the Countess of Wessex were there to meet and greet selected guests.

"We had a lovely time," said Mrs Hudspeth, of Harlow Common. "It was very well organised and we had a lovely tea."

"There were thousands of tables and chairs laid out for us when we arrived at around 1.30pm and we stayed until 5pm when we waved goodbye to some of the Royal Family."

She added: "The WI is a great organisation and we all help each other out when we need to."

The Queen attended the organisation's annual conference at the Royal Albert Hall during which she congratulated members on the "significant occasion".

Fire prevention is key as service plans for future

Public given the chance to have their say

Ken Morley

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FIRE chiefs have embarked on their biggest-ever public consultation to help shape the future of the service in Essex.

The 12-week exercise, which started on Monday, will seek to address several key areas of the fire authority's Integrated Risk Management Plan including a fall in the number of callouts and the need to divert more resources to fire prevention.

It will also focus on issues including response times and the target of having a working smoke alarm in every home in Essex.

Acting Chief Fire Officer Adam Eckley said: "This is an opportunity for everyone to have a say in the future shape of the service. We want all residents and businesses to have a look at the plan and let us know what they think."

"It is clear that the best way to keep people safe from fires and other emergencies is to stop them occurring in the first place."

The number of emergency calls attended by crews has halved during the past 10 years to 13,500 but the service has also had to cope with spending reductions and adapt to an ageing population.

"We face a future which will be characterised by changes to the nature of the operational demands on our service alongside decreased funding," said ACO Eckley.

Sustainable

"We need to ensure that as a service we remain sustainable into the future. We will become protection and prevention focused, but we will always have a strong response element to fires and emergencies."

The service is currently embroiled in a dispute with the Fire Brigades Union over plans to axe 179 frontline firefighter posts and emergency control room jobs.

Union members staged their latest walkout at the weekend in protest at the cuts which the FBU had described as "unprecedented".

Alan Chinn-Shaw, secretary of the FBU in Essex, said: "None of us want to take further strike action but the managers and politicians simply aren't listening and remain wholly intransigent."

"We are committed to negotiations but service managers have shown no sign whatsoever of compromise and are still intent on imposing deeply unworkable conditions that will put firefighters and the public we serve at great risk."

During initial 12-week consultation period, which ends on September 6, the public will be asked eight key questions about the service but will also be able to comment on any aspect of the plan.

The results will then be used in the development of a set of options for change, which will form the second part of the exercise.

Cash seized in drugs bust will help fight crime

MORE than £500,000 seized from a gang of drug dealers will be used to tackle crime in Essex.

The money was seized by officers from the Kent and Essex Serious Crime Directorate in March 2013 during an investigation into the supply of cocaine in Essex and east London.

The cash was found hidden inside a flue box panel, an air duct and the airing cupboard at a flat in Barking during a search by officers from both the Essex and Metropolitan police forces.

Cocaine with a street value of more than £1.2m was also recovered during the operation.

Eleven men were jailed for a total of 118 years for conspiracy to supply Class A drugs and money laundering offences

Detective Constable Jonathan Williams, of the Serious Economic Crime Unit, applied for the forfeiture of the cash which was granted by Chelmsford magistrates last week.

"This was an outstanding conclusion to an investigation where police and the Crown Prosecution Service have worked effectively together to take drugs and criminal money off the streets," said Detective Chief Inspector Stuart Smith.

"The forfeited money will further enhance Essex Police's capability to tackle serious crime."

LITTLE STARS: Pupils from Harlow's Hare Street Primary School celebrate

Four-star success for Hare Street

STAFF and pupils at Hare Street Primary School in Harlow have been given a pat on the back for their hard work and achievements.

The school received a four star rating in the latest tables compiled by SchoolsGuide.co.uk, which uses information including Ofsted reports, 2014 exam results and performance data released by the Department for Education.

The site gives schools a rating ranging from one to five stars which it says is a summary of how well it has performed in the previous year.

It also gives the school's pupil/teacher ratio, persistent absence record and the percentages of pupils registered for school meals and whose first language is not English.

Hare Street, which was second in Harlow, recently received 'Good' rating following an Ofsted inspection.

Headteacher Tim Voss said: "Combined with our recent Ofsted report, our feature in the recent Government Initiatives publication and the Raising Achievement booklet, everyone at Hare Street should feel really pleased that their hard work has paid off."

Chair of governors Linda Pailing added: "The whole school community is absolutely delighted with the recognition this brings. It's thanks to the hard work of the staff and children that we have achieved this."

Fast food firm's help for tidy-minded pupils

A GROUP of schoolchildren swapped their blazers for high visibility jackets when they took part in a litter pick exercise as part of a Love Where You Live class project.

Working with volunteers from the McDonald's restaurant at Hastingwood, youngsters in Year 5 at St Andrew's Primary School in North Weald were asked to design a poster to raise awareness of the issues of litter.

The top three entries were awarded WH Smith vouchers and the winning poster was displayed on boards around the takeaway to encourage customers and the community to be "litter aware".

They then set about clearing

SEEN TO BE CLEAN: St Andrew's Primary School pupils in their high-visibility jackets

rubbish from the playing field adjacent to the school.

Tony Fagg, the franchisee of Harlow McDonald's who has a keen interest in the environment and is keen to promote his commitment to tackling litter, said: "It was great to see such enthusiasm and teamwork between the pupils and staff of St. Andrew's, Epping Council and the employees of McDonald's. I am certain that the children's awareness of the issues surrounding litter were heightened by the day's events."

Schools moving in right direction claims new head

Improvements put an end to pupil exclusions

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

THREE schools in Harlow which together excluded more than 100 pupils in one academic year are making giant strides.

Latton Green, Abbotswood and Longwood joined the National Education Trust Academies Trust (NETAT) under executive head Jo Coton in January.

Last year, Ofsted placed both Latton Green and Longwood in special measures and Abbotswood also required improvement.

Improvements

Mrs Coton, who has not excluded any pupils, said improvements had been made and the change was achieved by a mix of setting out clear expectations and implementing exciting changes in the classroom. In the previous academic year 101 pupils had been excluded.

She said her senior leadership team had high expectations of pupil behaviour and immediately introduced effective behaviour management strategies and pupil support programmes.

Mrs Coton, who has also rearranged the curriculum, said: "We have ambitious plans to make our schools, Abbotswood, Latton Green and Longwood, the best they can possibly be."

"The best for the teachers, the support staff, the parents and carers, the community we serve and, most of all, for the young people whose future we are entrusted with."

Mrs Coton has set out a two-year programme of improvement that begins with recruiting specialist teachers in key subjects including mathematics and English. She said: "Our aim is to develop children as resilient, confident and reflective learners filled with a sense of purpose."

"This can be achieved through a balance of academic, sporting and artistic success to ensure children are provided with numerous opportunities to explore what they enjoy and excel in."

Mrs Coton, who was born and brought up in Essex, has been teaching for more than 20 years and in school leadership positions for 15 years. She added: "It is a simple and proven formula for success. Focusing on the key subjects and the core and extracurricular ones result in school improvement and improvement in the life chances of all of the pupils in the school community."

Mrs Coton believes the biggest single factor for success is recruiting the best teachers.

Rewarding

She added: "We offer teachers a fantastically rewarding and ambitious organisation to work within, with a supportive and growing multi-academy trust behind us, where teachers are challenged and supported and their talents celebrated and nurtured."

According to Ofsted's latest inspections in 2014, Longwood and Latton Green remain in special measures while Abbotswood is still graded requiring improvement. No reports have been published since the takeover.

Nursery's most recommended

A DAY nursery has topped a poll for being the most recommended in the east of England.

Fidgety Fingers, in Willow Place, Hastingwood received the award from the online guide daynurseries.co.uk.

The ranking was calculated using a combination of the number of recommendations, the average of each of its ratings and the size of the nursery.

Davina Ludlow, director of daynurseries.co.uk, said: "It is a fantastic achievement."

Fidgety Fingers owner Jackie Neagle said: "We are absolutely delighted to have received the award. The comments have been fantastic and we are so pleased that parents recognise us as such a good place."

Museum's showpiece on the list for hospice open garden weekend

WELCOME: One of the gardens which will be open to the public

THE 16th century walled garden at Harlow Museum will join a list of 27 gardens in and around the town which will welcome visitors during St Clare Hospice's annual open gardens weekend later this month.

The two-day event, organised by Ann Gould and the Harlow Friends of St Clare Hospice, is an opportunity for the public to explore some hidden treasures and best kept green spaces.

The walled garden at Harlow Museum is located in the former stables of the historic Mark Hall Manor House. It is home to a number of rare and unusual species and is the ideal picnic spot.

Other gardens on the list range from cottage and farmhouse gardens to courtyards and allotments.

Many of the owners will be providing additional attractions such as music, raffles and refreshments as well as plant, bric-a-brac and craft stalls. A family fun day with a bouncy castle and children's activities will take place at Gibson Court in Bishopsfield from 11am to 3pm on both days.

The open weekend, which is sponsored by Pawley & Malyon Chartered Accountants, takes place on June 27 and 28. Entry to all the gardens is by brochure only costing £3.50 each and containing details and locations of all 27.

Climbing wall fall costs council £12k

Teenager was injured in accident at activity centre

Court Reporter

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

AN accident in which a teenage girl fell more than 23 feet from a climbing wall at an activities centre in Harlow has cost Essex County Council more than £12,000.

The youngster suffered bruised internal organs and deep tissue damage as a result of the fall at the centre in Burnt Mill Lane last March. She was taken to hospital in a neck brace.

The county council was prosecuted by the Health and Safety Executive for failing to ensure people were not exposed to harm and at Chelmsford Magistrates Court on Monday it was fined £10,000 and ordered to pay £2,599 in costs and a £120 victim surcharge.

Glyn Davies, prosecuting on behalf of the HSE, said the girl was attending a Saturday climbing club for beginners when she fell after her foot slipped.

"Essex County Council failed to manage the risk to the novice climbers after the instructor was not competent to supervise and procedures were not followed," said Mr Davies.

The court was told the regulations allowed a maximum of 10 climbers split into three groups but on this occasion there were four groups. There were also difficulties for the group involving the victim in relation to the equipment.

He added the instructor had worked at another site and had not been inducted in the Harlow instructions, although it was assumed she had the necessary qualifications.

Mark Scoggins, representing the council, described the accident as a one-off for which it expressed regret.

The council admitted the offence at a hearing earlier in March but a decision on whether to commit the case to the crown court was adjourned until this week.

After agreeing with both sides that the case should be dealt with by the magistrates, chairman of the bench Dawn Roche said: "We know there's a civil claim ongoing and no formal diagnosis of the girl, although she's still under the hospital and things are ongoing."

"She suffered injuries but hopefully they are not ongoing debilitating injuries."

In a statement released after the hearing, the council said: "It was, as the HSE itself agreed, an isolated and regrettable lapse. The HSE also confirmed Essex Outdoors had a sufficient and suitable safety management policy in place."

It said operating procedures reflected national good practice on and prior to the accident and added it had since carried out an audit of procedures and processes across all Essex Outdoor establishments to ensure all sites followed operating and safety procedures.

The court made an order preventing the identification of the victim.

Police arson appeal after garden blaze

POLICE investigating a late-night fire in the garden of a house in Harlow want to speak to three teenagers seen playing in the street nearby earlier in the evening.

An old sofa and a wooden gate were deliberately set alight at about 11.30pm on Saturday, May 23.

The sofa was against the house in Upper Park and the flames burned and melted window frames.

Sergeant Natalie Rooney, of Harlow CID, said: "We are appealing for members of the public who saw anyone acting suspiciously in the area in the hours before the fire to contact us."

"We are particularly keen to speak to three teenagers who were seen playing in the street near the address at about 9.15pm and might be potential witnesses."

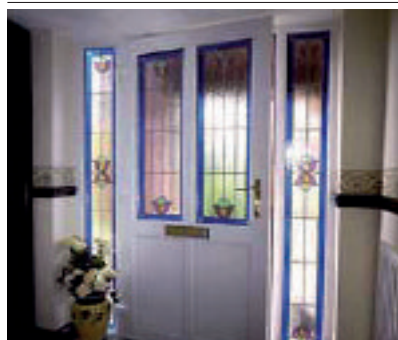

Anyone with information should call Sgt Rooney on the non-emergency 101 number.

Ghana fundraiser

TWO Year 10 students are combining their GCSE studies with raising money for a trip to Ghana where they work as volunteers next summer.

Matthew Damir and Samuel Mason, who attend Burnt Mill Academy in Harlow, have to raise £2,500.

The 14-year-olds are planning to hold a fun day at the Great Parndon Scout Hut in School Lane from noon-4pm on Sunday, June 28.

SCISSOR KICK: Ledley King cuts the ribbon with help from airport managing director Andrew Harrison and school pupils

Spurs legend Ledley opens 'flagship' education centre

FORMER Spurs and England defender Ledley King has given a kick start to a new education centre at Stansted Airport.

The 34-year-old, who retired through injury three years ago, was representing the Tottenham Hotspur Foundation at the official opening of the £500,000 Aerozone Stansted.

The aim of Aerozone is to inspire young people to consider a career in aviation and boost skills in the STEM subjects of science, technology, engineering and maths. It also tells the story of the airport's history.

The centre features interactive and audio-visual activities to demonstrate how planes fly and how Stansted, one of the UK's busiest airports, operates.

Managing director Andrew Harrison said: "The Aerozone is our flagship community project here at Stansted and its opening represents a long-term commitment to our community."

"Engaging with young people, particularly those living in areas close to the airport, is a vital part of our community work."

Almost 20 organisations, including Boeing UK and Essex County Council, have supported the project by offering sponsorship and materials to equip the centre.

Construction work to refurbish an administration building next to the airfield started in December.

It has been used to house the classrooms while the surrounding area has been landscaped to include picnic, viewing and parking areas where visitors can watch the airport in operation.

Cllr Ray Gooding, ECC's member for education and the county councillor for Stansted, said: "I'm confident this facility will be well used by schools across Essex and further afield."

"How better to spark a child's imagination than to develop their learning of STEM subjects in a fantastic centre within sight of the Stansted runway."

Essex welcome for America's First Lady

Michelle Obama flies into Stansted for two-day visit to UK

Sinead Holland

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

STANSTED Airport was at the centre of a media frenzy on Monday when America's First Lady Michelle Obama flew in for the start of an official visit to the UK.

The 51-year-old writer and lawyer, who was accompanied by her mother Marian Robinson and daughters Malia, 16, and Sasha, 14, was in the UK to promote Let Girls Learn, her international effort to encourage disadvantaged teenagers towards further education.

The whistle-stop tour included a visit to a London school and tea at 10 Downing Street with Prime Minister David Cameron and his wife Samantha. The Obamas returned to Stansted yesterday (Wednesday) for their flight home.

The party flew in to the airport's exclusive Harrods Aviation VIP terminal shortly after 8.30pm from Washington following trips to Japan and Cambodia. They arrived on board a 45-seater Boeing 757 from the presidential fleet.

Mrs Obama was greeted by the American ambassador to London, Matthew Barzun. She then met a party of military families from US Air Force bases at Mildenhall in Suffolk and Alconbury in Cambridgeshire before her cavalcade headed to the American Embassy with an escort from Essex Police and the Met, including motorcycle outriders.

This week's arrival was a more relaxed affair than Mrs Obama's first touchdown at Stansted in March 2009 when she arrived with the President for the G20 summit.

Then, the airport was picked to handle the arrival after an earlier trip to Heathrow by President George W Bush caused chaos for ordinary passengers.

Stansted's managing director Andrew Harrison said: "It's a great honour for everyone connected with Stansted to once again host the arrival of the First Lady. Visits of this nature always require very detailed planning and rely on excellent teamwork between a vast number of different organisations and business partners."

"The fact we are able to welcome such flights while at the same time maintaining our very busy regular flight operations is testament not only to our proven track record in hosting high-profile and complex arrivals, but also the excellent airfield layout and extensive high-quality private facilities."

CARING: Members of St Clare's Hospice At Home team

Hospice extends home care service for the terminally ill

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

MORE people with terminal or life-limiting illnesses are being looked after at home by St Clare Hospice following the expansion of its home care support.

The Hospice at Home service is now available 24 hours a day, seven days a week after a decision was taken to continue overnight support which was introduced in December to cover the winter months.

During the first year after the Hospice at Home service was launched in January 2014 more than 300 patients received care in the final weeks of life or times of crisis.

As a result, unnecessary hospital admissions were avoided in three out of four cases and the service was also able to provide transition support in instances when a patient who was ready to be discharged from hospital but had to stay because the necessary support was not in place.

The hospice now aims to more than double the number of people benefiting from the service.

Chief executive Tanya Curry said: "We are celebrating 25 years of hospice care in west Essex this year and the vision has always been to enable people to remain at home, if they wish.

Specialist

"Working together with the commissioners and our health care partners, we are delighted to be moving a step closer towards our goal of providing high-quality specialist palliative care at the right time and in the right place for every family who needs it."

Clare Morris, chief officer at West Essex Clinical Commissioning Group which is responsible for buying healthcare services in the Harlow, Epping Forest and Uttlesford districts, said: "When people are reaching the end of their life, hands-on personal care is even more important. By extending the Hospice at Home service, we're ensuring that people can die with dignity in their place of choice.

One woman who experienced the service during her husband's final days said: "He was fiercely determined to stay at home. It's where he'd always lived and the St Clare nurses were just wonderful.

"I knew he was in safe hands. They kept him as comfortable as possible and spent lots of time talking to us about what was going to happen, helping us not to be afraid of the future."

Canyon trekkers raise £45k for cancer trials

A GROUP of keen walkers stepped up to raise thousands of pounds for Harlow hospital's breast cancer clinical trials unit during a trip-of-a-lifetime to the Grand Canyon.

The party of 21 travelled to the United States last month to take part in the trek along the canyon. They raised £45,000.

Organiser Symone White, 47, said: "They only let 200 people in at one time so it was very special. We went white water rafting down the Colorado to the oldest part of the canyon that you can only see from the river.

"The helicopter ride out of the canyon at the end was an amazing surprise for everyone."

The healthcare

assistant and mum-of-two was diagnosed with breast cancer in 2000.

Symone and her friend Karen Thompson set up their charity, Together in West Essex, to raise funds for the clinical trials unit at Princess Alexandra Hospital and St Margaret's Hospital in Epping.

Fifteen years on they have raised more than £300,000 by organising fundraising walks, fun days, balls and treks including the Great Wall of China, the Inca Trail in Peru and Everest Base Camp.

"I feel very proud of what Karen and I have achieved," said Symone. "We got a real buzz out of it. I got the all-clear in 2005 and I'm lucky to be alive and I want to give something back to the unit."

The Harlow beauty hoping to win Miss England

Rose, 21, through to the semi-finals

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A BEAUTY queen from Harlow is canvassing for support in her bid to be crowned Miss England.

Rose Marnie, who lives in Staple Tye, will be competing for a place in the final of the national beauty pageant when she takes part in the semi-finals early next month.

The 21-year-old won the wildcard round to gain a place in the semi-finals where she will be up against 20 other girls.

The semi-finals are being held at Kelham Hall and Country Park near Newark on Sunday, July 5. Five girls – including one who polls the most votes in a public ballot which is currently under way – will join the 37 others already in the grand final which takes place at the Ricoh Arena in Coventry on August 14.

The girl crowned Miss England 2015 will then go onto represent the country at the Miss World competition in China in December.

Rose said: "I am very excited to be involved and it will be a good opportunity for me as I hope to be involved in charity work, which is the main reason why I am involved."

"This is my first pageant and I qualified for the semi-finals through the wild card round after I missed the regional competition."

Rose, who has previously undertaken modelling assignments, currently works for stop smoking service ACE.

For details on how to vote for Rose, visit the Miss England website www.missengland.info/semi-finalists-2015.

Author of children's book on cancer dies

Mum wanted to help youngsters understand when parents fall ill

Ken Morley

star@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

A FORMER Harlow College PE teacher who wrote a book to help young people understand cancer after she was diagnosed with a brain tumour has died at the age of 50.

Julie Hanger, who was also known as Joolie, moved to Harlow with her family from Wellingborough near Nottingham as a child. She attended Stewards School and then went on to study sport at the University of Bedfordshire before completing her teacher training at Burnt Mill School.

She joined Harlow College as a lecturer in sports in 1989 and remained there until the diagnosis of a brain tumour in November 2013 stopped her from working.

INSPIRATIONAL: Julie Hanger with a copy of her book and, above right, with sons Oliver and Ben in 2013

While working at the college she married husband Adrian Cook and the couple had two sons, Oliver and Ben. The pair later divorced.

At the college she became head of academy for engineering and sports disciplines. Colleagues said that in 24 years at Harlow College her enthusiasm to ensure all students had the very best teaching helped thousands.

After she was diagnosed with cancer her sons raised more than £5,000 for Cancer Research UK by completing the Three Peaks Challenge.

Treatment

And it was while she was receiving treatment at Queen's Hospital in Romford she wrote My Mum Is Poorly, using her own experience to help children understand and cope with having a seriously ill parent.

Speaking last year, she said: "I promised the hospital I would write something because there is no literature for children to help them understand cancer and explain their parents are poorly."

"I have cancer, I have a tumour on my brain and I wanted to do this to help children whose parents are ill."

"I got lots of people to read it and the feedback has been brilliant. My family are all so proud of me for writing this book, it has been a dream of mine and to have realised my dream."

Important

"I just hope it helps children, as that is the most important thing. Hopefully this book will help children understand and know that mum or dad being poorly is the most important thing."

Julie died peacefully at Premier Court Nursing Home in Bishop's Stortford on June 6. Her funeral will take place at St James Church in Thorley at 2pm today (Thursday).

Julie's book costs £15, with £6 going to Cancer Research UK. It can be purchased by visiting www.lulu.com and searching for My Mum Is Poorly.

Three-legged tortoise is a wheely fast mover

WE all know that tortoises are not the fastest animals on four legs.

So things looked grim for one family pet when it had to have one its back legs removed by a vet after it was involved in an accident.

However, the tortoise called Touche is now back on its feet after the leg was replaced with a wheel from a model car.

Veterinary surgeon Sonya Miles carried out the 90-minute operation during which she attached the wheel to the underside of Touche's shell with a special type of glue.

Within an hour of the surgery, Touche was moving around and eating

"We decided to attach the wheel to avoid him damaging the underside of his shell by dragging his back end," said Dr Miles.

"It can be taken off in the future if we feel that he has enough strength to hold himself up, but he could be fine with a wheel for the rest of his life."

As tortoises continue to grow until they are between 10 and 15 years old, Touche could double in size and may need a bigger wheel fitted. But for the time being he is happy with his new addition.

Owner Lisa Purnell said

he is zooming around the garden of his home in Bristol as if nothing has happened.

EP launch to mark last visit to venue

ALTERNATIVE rockers The Worldonfire will launch their latest EP Music to Leadership in Harlow.

The four-piece will launch the EP at The Square on Friday, July 10, when they take to the iconic stage for the final time before it closes in December.

Guitarist Billy Ginn told Go!: "The Square always has been and I hope always will be an essential part of Harlow.

"We actually had our first rehearsal together on the stage and have played there almost every year since.

"I'm sure it will be emotional standing on that stage for the last time and it will be with heavy hearts that we see it pulled down when the time comes."

The Worldonfire are Billy with guitarist Haaris Al, drummer Joe Lazarus and led by vocalist and bass player Dave Walsh.

While the band have been playing all over the country for many years, they are not short of ideas and promise to mix with old with the new on their upcoming EP.

Billy continues: "The new EP is a true representation to ourselves, full of big catchy choruses and nerdy-muso time changes.

"We're close to sounding exactly what we hoped we would and we've had full control this time around and have had limitless studio hours to beard scratch over guitar tones."

"Studios are great, but we have always been a live band and we are looking to put some shows in the diary to support the EP."

Despite the band's debut LP having been released more than 10 years ago, the band is still pushing forward.

The show is offering the Harlow boys a chance to reflect on their time growing up with the venue.

"Harlow has always had a great little music scene from the Stortbeat days through to now and the only ever-present is that little building; there is truly magic in the walls," added Billy.

"There is still life in the old beast, as the guys running the place have some really exciting and ambitious ideas and we'll look forward to playing there as soon as we can to start the whole thing off once more."

Film-makers have chance to see work on screen

BUDDING film makers are being given the opportunity to showcase their work for free at Harlow Playhouse.

Comedy, Horror, Sci-Fi? There's no theme to Film Fling. It's simply a chance for the community to exhibit their work, chat to other filmmakers, revisit an old favourite or premiere their newest creation.

Ben Parsley, Film Fling programmer and contributor, explained: "As a Harlow short film maker, I'm delighted that the community have again been granted a unique opportunity to share their hard work and passion and showcase their talent.

"Making films with my best friend and uploading them on YouTube is just something I did in my spare time.

"Film Fling has allowed me to develop this into something I can share with my family, my friends and my community."

Thinking of taking part? Entrants need to simply send their film, or a link to their film, to harlowfilmfling@gmail.com by June 30. If selected, the film will be presented on the big screen in front of a live audience at the Film Fling on July 23.

If you're not a filmmaker, you can still grab your free ticket for an evening of short films.

Film Fling will screened in the main auditorium on July 23. Doors open at 8pm.

Comedy shows give Essex audiences a taste of Edinburgh Festival

TWO comedy shows will give Harlow audiences a taste of the Edinburgh Festival when they play at The Square this summer.

On the bill for Wednesday, August 5, will be Clare Harrison's 15 minutes of Shame and Trevor FeelGood: The Dork

Knight Rises in 3D.

As a warm-up to the famous Scottish festival, Square organisers are offering free entry on the night, as both comics will try out new material.

Chris Norton Walker will be compering for the evening, while Clare

Harrison's show will feature special guest Paul Miles.

The Funsize Feelgood Preview will be a great launching point for rising comedienne Clare, who is also an accomplished yoga teacher and writer.

Her new variety show entertains audiences with tales from her experiences of a wonderfully varied career that has included appearing on Channel 4 show First Dates and meeting Russell Brand in a dress designed as a giant condom.

Trevor, meanwhile, will be in Edinburgh from August 8-22. It is said The Dork Knight Rises was his second choice of title after his realisation that a live show about the Scottish referendum might be a bad idea.

■ Doors open at 8pm on August 5 at the Fourth Avenue venue.

Giving the town back its art

TAKE FLIGHT: Above, Solo Flight in First Avenue by Antanas Brazdys. Below, Flowing Onwards by Angela Godfrey

WITH hundreds of local artists, a variety of exhibitions and an acclaimed sculpture trail, Harlow has a proud arts heritage - but too few people are aware of the town's culture.

However, momentum is building to counter the negative perception of Harlow by showcasing the town's culture and members of art organisations are hoping a series of new exhibitions will bring art into the public eye.

Visitors to Harlow are greeted by signs declaring it to be a 'sculpture town', but for many, this would be the only indication of an art movement.

With an increased focus on providing housing, regenerating the shopping centre and developing Harlow into an eastern business capital, much of the town, originally designed in 1947 by Sir Frederick Gibberd, has been left behind.

The staggered levels of modernisation have resulted in a lot of the 1950s architecture becoming the butt of many a joke - even One Foot in the Grave actor Richard Wilson described Harlow as 'tired and uninspiring'.

But while much of the town's development has been highly positive, art lovers are feeling that a side of the town that once played an important role in its development has been forgotten.

"Many people outside just think of Harlow as being for TK Maxx and shopping; it can be a great challenge to get people to understand what we have to offer," Corrina Dunlea, curator of the Gibberd Gallery explained.

"There were a lot of enthusiastic and intelligent people that started the art movement in Harlow, but the new generation do not know about them."

On Thursday, Jenny Lushington of the Friends of Harlow Sculpture led a town tour titled Art and the New Town - the influence of Sir Frederick Gibberd.

The tour group was shown around the Gibberd Gallery before visiting a new special exhibition called Through My Eyes, which focuses on brilliantly technical portrait paintings.

Open until July 2, Through My Eyes is one of a number of new exhibitions open to the public as part of Harlow's 'summer of art'.

One of the contributors, Andrew James, painted a man's portrait live at the gallery in just under three hours.

There will be two further opportunities to take in the Gibberd town tour, while the Gatehouse Art trail also offers an opportunity to explore the town's culture. Celebrated sculptor William Mitchell will be giving a talk at the town centre gallery.

Ms Dunlea says that the art scene is having to raise its game to attract attention to Harlow's culture.

"Some do not believe that we have some of the best arts and sculpture in the country."

Ms Dunlea added: "More than anything, the gallery needs volunteers to keep providing a service. If there is nobody here when people are looking around, it can be a bit eerie and people like having someone to talk to."

"However, more and more people are coming in."

There are 87 sculptures dotted around Harlow and maps are available from the gallery.

You never even need to go too far out of your way to see Harlow's art, with many works dotted around the town centre.

Harlow's art community is fighting back to preserve one of the town's greatest legacies.

For more information visit www.gibberdgallery.co.uk.

■ The Art and the New Town - The influence of Sir Frederick Gibberd tour will be held again on July 9, August 13 and September 10.

WORTH A WATCH

Mike's TV Film of the Week

WAR: KELLY'S HEROES Five USA, Friday June 19, 1.05pm

In 1970, Hollywood was at a crossroads – caught between the old-style, inherently conservative studio product and a younger, hipper, ruder type of film epitomised by Robert Altman's brilliant unforseen hit *M*A*S*H*. Three years earlier another original war film had also been a surprise box-office smash, Robert Aldrich's desperately cynical The Dirty Dozen. So perhaps it was as simple as ignoring the fact that the two films had totally conflicting philosophies and saying 'why don't we make *M*A*S*H* meets The Dirty Dozen?' Who knows, but there has to be some explanation for Kelly's Heroes.

Because this is one weird film – right from the off, it's as confused and uncertain as a middle-aged studio executive of the time watching Easy Rider. The titles come up in big red gothic lettering. It's a stormy night in a very busy German military encampment – they seem to be on the move. Sitting among the stationary vehicles in the rain is a clearly marked USA Army Jeep, and sitting behind the wheel is a man (Clint Eastwood) in US Army uniform. Next to him is a German officer, as impassive as you would be with a gun in your back. Tension expertly achieved in seconds. They are rumbled, a German cries 'halt' and goes for his gun, Clint puts his foot down and ploughs through him and... a song breaks out on the soundtrack that would not have been out of place on The Lulu Show, a defiantly contemporary, catchy little ditty with lyrics that have zero relevance to the movie. Tension? What tension? And so it goes.

Clint is Kelly, a military scapegoat busted down from Lieutenant to Private. He learns from his captive about $16 million in Nazi gold sitting in a bank 30 miles behind enemy lines, and he and his platoon, led by Big Joe (Telly Savalas) go after it. Along for the ride are Crappgame (Don Rickles), a money-worshipping supply sergeant, and Oddball (Donald Sutherland), a hippy tank commander who appears to have arrived in 1944 France on the bus from Woodstock Festival.

It's impossible to tell whether Kelly's Heroes is an anti-war film that lost its way or a boys' own adventure with rebel trimmings (it was marketed as a comedy). Eastwood complained that 20 minutes of studio cuts (bringing it down to a mere two-and-a-half hours) ruined the film, but it's hard to see how. They certainly couldn't have explained away the idiocy of the scene that follows the deaths of two of the platoon (making it about a thousand to two in their favour, killing-wise). With mournful music playing in the background, the rest of the bunch – who landed at Omaha Beach – mope about as if they were a suburban family whose dog had just died. And yet, somehow, as it lurches from satire to sit-com to slaughter and back, the film works. The great cast – with Sutherland a particular joy – helps, of course. I like it a lot.

Celebrity MasterChef

COOKERY: BBC1 Thursday, June 18, 9pm

There aren't many weeks of the year when MasterChef isn't on in one form or the other and it returns this week in its celebrity edition. This year's contestants have been announced, including Essex celebrities Danny Crates and Rylan Clark. In the first round, it's the invention test in which the famous faces have to show their creative side before heading to top London restaurants to get a taste of working in a real kitchen. Cooking doesn't get much tougher than this... again.

As Sir Ian McKellen turns his talents to another iconic British character in Mr Holmes, the actor talks to Keeley Bolger about ageing, prejudice and his respect for the youngsters of today

Sir Ian McKellen, one of our most beloved actors, is back on our big screens this week breathing life into one of literature's most enduring detectives, Sherlock Holmes.

It seems an appropriate match, but in a crowded market, filled with memorable reincarnations from Benedict Cumberbatch, Robert Downey Jr, Basil Rathbone and Jeremy Brett, how does McKellen's version – in new movie Mr Holmes – differ?

"The take of this film is that he wasn't fiction, he was a real man, and he wasn't really like the Sherlock Holmes that Dr Watson portrays in the short stories and novels," explains the actor, who has just celebrated his 76th birthday.

"That was the intriguing part of it, that although Sherlock Holmes is a part many, many actors have successfully played and are still doing, this was, at least, not a script that any of them had done before. And part of the newness is Sherlock Holmes is very old."

Indeed, set in 1947, McKellen's Holmes is 93 years of age for much of the film, with flashbacks to 30 years previously, and living in relative anonymity in the Sussex countryside, with his housekeeper and her young son, Roger.

Irked with the misrepresentation of him in Watson's novels, Holmes diverts his attention to an unsolved case, and is frustrated when his memory falters and he can't remember key details relating to it.

"At my age, I'm inevitably interested in what it's like to be an old man, surviving your friends, trying to make new ones and trying to understand a sometimes alien world," says McKellen, who is stylishly dressed in a leather jacket and patterned scarf.

"It's not a fantasy world that he lives in, but a very real world."

Although the actor, who was born in Burnley and brought up in Wigan, empathises with his character, memory loss isn't something that concerns him.

"I don't worry on my own behalf about decline, because it's not really happened yet," he says, turning his spectacles over in his hands as he speaks.

"But I do with friends and people my age and a bit older. I see what happens, and mortality's ever present, of course. It's no fun seeing an elderly relative decline and change."

Now in his seventh decade, McKellen's commanding performances in the Lord Of The Rings and The Hobbit movies are just as celebrated as his long stage career and rare but highly-praised comedic turns in Extras and – for a brief but brilliant spell – Coronation Street, as con artist Mel Hutchwright.

But growing up in the 1940s, cinema visits were "occasional"

ON SET: Director Bill Condon and Ian McKellen talk Sherlock Holmes and "there was no television" to watch, he recalls.

"I didn't go to the ABC Minors [cinema clubs] all the other kids went to on a Saturday morning," he says, smiling.

"I didn't go and see films relentlessly, week in, week out, and collect a whole bank of memories of films that other people have now forgotten. I'm not one of those film buffs!"

However, after studying at Cambridge, McKellen, who also stars alongside Derek Jacobi and Frances de la Tour in ITV's Vicious, a comedy about an older gay couple who work as actors, honed his craft at regional theatres.

"When I started out, you couldn't act unless you were a member of the union, Equity," says the X-Men star, who describes himself as a "slogger".

"Before you could get your

NO ONE is immune to the allure of that cruel and merciless mistress: time. She saps strength and suppleness from athletic bodies, defies every cream to wither beauty and dulls the sharpest intellects.

Mr Holmes imagines the twilight years of one of literature's icons, who is facing the grim reality of dementia with what remains of his once-glorious wit, aided by doses of a rare restorative plant from Japan called Prickly Ash.

full card, you had to be a provisional [actor] and you had to do 44 weeks of work – not continuous work – but 44 weeks of work, before you appeared at the West End or in a film or on television.

“So for the first 44 weeks of your career, you were not doing television, you were learning how to act in front of an audience.”

Although the rules have changed, McKellen is no stick-in-the-mud when it comes to commending the new generation, praising both his younger colleagues on Vicious and 12-year-old Mr. Holmes co-star Milo Parker (who plays Roger) for their talents.

“Milo was full of the esprit of a young person,” he says. “He had no fear of the camera or of doing exactly what the director wanted when required.”

Praise is also reserved for the recent vote to approve same sex marriage in the Republic Of Ireland.

A tireless campaigner for gay rights, does he think using the referendum is a useful way of approaching the subject?

“To be a purist, I don’t think it’s appropriate that civil rights should be a matter for a referendum, it should be automatic,” he says, adding that, although it was a “very good result”, there were still an “awful lot of people” who were opposed.

But he hopes Northern Ireland will follow suit.

“I think there will be pressure, I hope, on Northern Ireland, part of the United Kingdom, to join the human race, grow up, be nice to each other like we are in England, Scotland, Wales and the Republic.

“It’s a bit unseemly that there’s a part of the United Kingdom that hasn’t got the point yet, and I think the Irish vote will clearly have influence on other countries”

The curious case of the elderly detective

dignity and steely resolve by Sir Ian McKellen, is no longer the aloof master of deduction who traversed the pages of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle’s imagination.

Instead, he tends bees on the Sussex coast, haunted by the one case he failed to solve – if only he could recall the facts.

Bill Condon’s slow-burning drama tests our little grey cells with a perplexing subplot: The Curious Case Of The Thrice Oscar-Nominated Actress And The Wayward Accent.

Laura Linney is one of the finest performers of her generation, but here she is undone by a vocal delivery that roams wildly between the West Country, Ireland and America. Her valiant struggles are an unnecessary distraction.

The year is 1947 and Sherlock Holmes (McKellen), now 93, is a shadow of the brilliant logician, who once held court at 221b Baker Street flanked by Dr Watson (Colin Starkey) and Mrs Hudson (Sarah Crowden).

The ageing sleuth has retired to Cuckmere Haven, where he fusses over his hives, struggles to piece together fractured memories and infuriates his widowed housekeeper, Mrs Munro (Linney).

Her spirited son Roger (Milo Parker) is fascinated by Sherlock, and the boy shows a natural aptitude with the bees.

The lad inspires Sherlock to delve into the fog of the past to recall his only unsolved case – a missing person enquiry in 1919 involving a distraught husband, Thomas Kelmot (Patrick Kennedy), and his beautiful wife Ann (Hattie Morahan).

As Sherlock’s addled mind drifts between that ill-fated pre-war investigation and the present, the old man edges ever closer to an inglorious end.

Mr Holmes is distinguished by McKellen’s measured central performance and the strong support from rising star Parker.

The script slowly unravels the myth of the literary sleuth, including one bittersweet scene of the ageing Sherlock watching a film in which Basil Rathbone portrays him with unnatural gusto.

Plotting is pedestrian – there are no twists or big reveals – allowing us plenty of time to marvel at the picturesque locations, including one breath-taking shot of the White Cliffs of Dover.

We’ll meet Holmes again, in many different guises, but few will be as heartbreakingly frail or haunting as this.

Reporter William gets on his bike ...

ELITE cycling is more popular than ever, but Harlow's extensive cycle paths remain under-used while the town's roads are clogged to a standstill. Could pedal power be the way forward or is cycling a relic of the town's past? Reporter William Mata takes a journey of discovery.

THERE must be another way, I think to myself as the lights turn back to red on Fifth Avenue.

I've moved 200 yards in 10 minutes and as hopeless as it is, I know I'll be facing the same story tomorrow along with thousands of others in Harlow.

However, a growing movement is trying to tell people that sorry sights like this aren't inevitable. There is another way and it doesn't involve a new bypass or less traffic lights.

Cycling is embedded in Harlow's DNA, with 30 miles of traffic-free cycle paths criss-crossing their way through the town offering fast and easy access.

John Curry is a member of Harlow Civic Society and speeds past drivers like me on his bike wondering why so many people are content to waste their lives in a queue.

Today, John has offered to give me a tour of the cycle paths and kindly lends me one of his bikes so I can see for myself what Harlow has to offer.

Harlow's first workers rode everywhere on their bikes, as being able to afford a car was unthinkable. But as the population grew, the number of cars also rose, and while it is estimated that a majority of households own at least one bike, they are more seldom used than ever.

"We've seen a massive boom of cycling in this country thanks to the Tour de France, but people still aren't seeing cycling as a utility," says Derek Mullan, who works for Harlow Hub and Spoke cycle centre.

The Bush Fair-based organisation believes Harlow has the potential for a cycling revolution and aims to promote pedal power around the town, selling old and new bikes, providing repairs and offering guided rides.

"Cycling is a great way of getting around, it's cheap and green. It will save you money and take a few inches off your waistline. It also combats diabetes and obesity," adds Derek.

"Harlow has the type of cycle paths that many towns would kill for."

On my own 'Tour de Harlow', John shows me some of the impressive artworks which give a sculpture town its title, but what I'm most impressed by is the amount of peaceful wooded areas and picturesque meadows there are.

John says he feels privileged to live in a town of such beauty and enjoys nothing more than a ride around the paths that give the feel of being out in the country.

So if cycling is such a healthy, convenient and enjoyable way of getting around, then why don't more people do it?

According to Derek, a certain amount of "myth busting" is needed to change perceptions.

"Cycling is a hard sell, but 80 per cent of journeys by car in this country are four miles or less. A four-mile journey is probably 20 minutes on a bicycle and the same time in the car."

"The most common myth is that cyclists don't pay road tax. There is no such thing as road tax - it was abolished in 1937; money for roads comes from general taxation."

Derek adds that contrary to popular opinion, cyclists are very often covered by their home insurance and the wearing of a helmet is not legally required.

A major complaint put forward by letter-writers to the Star was the poor surface quality of the cycle paths, but on my inspection, the surfaces were perfectly useable.

I've thoroughly enjoyed my ride around the town with John and I make a mental note to get my own bike in order. I'll have many more days stuck in traffic but I, for one, look forward to the feeling of joyfully riding past queuing motorists.

Who knows, maybe one day there won't be any.

But until then, Hub and Spoke offers repairs, advice and a wide range of events for people taking up cycling.

"Landlords Beware!"

Smart investors are keen to snap up bargains, and the buy to let market remains surprisingly active. However, whilst it is tempting to go out and buy, buy, buy - a word of caution, because it might not be so easy to let, let, let.

Finding a tenant is only one aspect of the venture which some landlords feel can be done independently of a lettings agency. However, we often hear sob stories from new landlords who tried to go it alone - with disastrous consequences.

For example, according to the National Landlords Association, some 50% of landlords have had a property abandoned by a tenant. This usually follows at least one month of rent arrears and can also include substantial repairs bills and cleaning costs, and arrears of electricity, gas and water, which may have accrued without the landlord's knowledge. So the issue of credit referencing and deposit protection becomes an issue.

Then there is the problem of possession. You can't just reclaim the property, as the tenants are unlikely to have formally relinquished their occupation. So despite having an empty property, you could still have to gain formal possession through the courts. This can take months and be expensive, especially when compounded with rent arrears and a period of vacancy. And if you re-let the property illegally you can be fined up to 25% of the property's open market value!

As you might expect from the above, most experienced landlords choose to employ lettings specialists such as ourselves to manage their investment - as well as simply finding a tenant. Whilst the fee is likely to be higher than a straight tenant-finding fee, landlords typically agree that this could well represent one of the most rewarding aspects of their investment in the right letting agency.

TESTED JAGUAR XE

Jaguar's XE has been tasked with selling in bigger numbers than any Jaguar before it. Andy Enright assesses its chances.

THINK Jaguar and you probably think of unashamedly high-end cars, raffish, elegant and rapid. It's not a company that's given to lowering the bar and chasing volumes.

It tried that in 2001 with the dismal X-TYPE, a rebodied Ford Mondeo that languished in the range for eight years, the public never really enamoured by a Ford wearing a pastiche of Jaguar styling.

In its best-selling year, it sold half of Jaguar's initial 100,000 per year estimate, the Brits grumbling that here was a car they never wanted, hastily foisted on them by Ford's top brass in Detroit.

It's taken Browns Lane until now to come back with a second stab at the compact executive sector and it looks like they've learned from the X-TYPE and done things rather differently. The XE is a serious contender to the likes of the BMW 3 Series, the Audi A4 and the Mercedes-Benz C-Class.

When you compete in the same class as the BMW 3 Series, it's a measure of real confidence to bill your contender as "the driver's car in the global mid-size saloon segment". Yet that's exactly what Jaguar has done and a closer look at the XE reveals the reasons behind their bullishness.

The chassis is a 75 per cent aluminium monocoque, light but immensely strong. The clean sheet design utilises a classically correct longitudinal engine and rear-wheel drive architecture.

More of the right stuff comes with a slick double wishbone front suspension with room for an extra set of driveshafts when the inevitable all-wheel drive versions appear. Jaguar promises the best electric power steering in class and plenty of chassis goodies like torque vectoring by braking.

At present, the engine range includes a pair of brand new diesels from the modular Ingenium engine family. Both are 2.0-litre four-cylinder diesels with a choice of either a 163PS power output and 380Nm of torque or a more muscular 180PS and 430Nm.

Go petrol and you'll get to choose between two turbocharged, direct-injection, 2.0-litre four-cylinder units: one with 200PS and 280Nm of torque or another with 240PS and 340Nm.

The flagship powerplant is the all-aluminium supercharged 3.0-litre V6 from the F-TYPE sports car. Rated at 340PS with 450Nm of pulling power, this engine provides the XE S with some senior acceleration, 62mph arriving in 5.1 seconds, while top speed is electronically-limited to 155mph.

Six-speed manual gearboxes are standard for diesels, while petrol models get an excellent ZF eight-speed auto, which can be optioned onto the diesel variants.

The XE conforms to much the same design language forged by the XF in 2007. This bold step freed the company up to move forward confidently, spawning the magnificent XJ and F-TYPE shapes.

In many respects the XE does look like a Russian doll miniature of the XF, a tactic already profitably exploited by its key German rivals. That means an aggressive grille, a strongly-sculpted bonnet, a steeply raked windscreen and a fluid window line. The result is a car that cleaves the air like no Jaguar before, registering a phenomenally low 0.26 drag coefficient.

The interior is more spacious than the coupe-like profile would suggest. There's that typically Jaguar enveloping feel to the front of the cabin, with an eight-inch touchscreen taking pride of place.

Automatic cars get the brand's trademark rotary controller. The rear seats can be optionally heated and offer a 40:20:40 split-fold - a first for Jaguar - and a through-loading feature.

Prices start at a little under £27,000 for the 200PS petrol entry-level SE, with Prestige, Portfolio, R-Sport and S trims also offered. Go diesel as most buyers will and you'll be looking at almost £30,000 for a 163PS SE, with the 180PS models only around £500 more expensive.

As for the pokier petrol models, the 240PS 2.0i variant starts in R-Sport guise at just over £33,000, while the supercharged 3.0-litre S is priced at almost £45,000.

As for equipment, well even the entry-level model gets features like satellite navigation, cruise control, 17-inch alloy wheels, DAB digital radio and a multifunction steering wheel.

All manner of options, from stereo camera road sign recognition to blind spot monitoring and radar adaptive cruise control, can be fitted. There's self-parking, a laser head up display and perhaps the most intriguing feature of all, All Surface Progress Control.

This traction management system comes into its own on snow-covered driveways and ungritted winter roads - and even wet grass. It works with the ZF auto gearbox and functions between 2mph and 19mph, activated by the cruise control switches on the steering wheel.

Having set the desired speed, the driver concentrates on steering. The car takes care of the rest, ensuring smooth progress without the driver touching the pedals.

All manner of refinements have helped to produce exemplary emissions and economy figures.

Scrap Cars

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 (as amended) Regulation 18 of the Town and Country Planning (Local Development) (England) Regulations 2012

Replacement Waste Local Plan – Revised Preferred Approach Notice of public participation in the preparation of a Local Plan Consultation period 18 June – 30 July 2015

Essex County Council (ECC) and Southend-on-Sea Borough Council (SBC) have produced the Joint Replacement Waste Local Plan – Revised Preferred Approach document and Sustainability Appraisal. This sets out the key principles to guide the future management of waste in Essex and Southend until 2032. Primarily, this includes the proposed spatial vision, strategic objectives, spatial strategy, core policies, preferred site allocations, development management policies and monitoring framework.

The Replacement Waste Local Plan (RWLP) was formerly known as the Waste Development Document (WDD) and once adopted will replace the existing Waste Local Plan 2001. The previous stage in the preparation of the RWLP was the WDD: Preferred Approach – November 2011. Feedback from this consultation will inform the subsequent RWLP Submission stage consultation, before the Replacement Waste Local Plan is submitted to the Secretary of State for independent Examination in Public.

All consultation documents can be accessed online via www.essex.gov.uk/WLP and www.southend.gov.uk/wastelocalplan. Paper copies of the main consultation document and its accompanying Non-Technical Summary are available at County Hall in Chelmsford, at the Civic Centre in Southend and at Essex and Southend libraries and district/borough/city council offices. Paper copies of the Sites Assessment & Methodology Report and the Areas of Search Assessment & Methodology will be available at Essex and Southend district/borough/city council offices and at the following libraries: Basildon, Braintree, Chelmsford, Colchester, Harlow and Southend.

Representations on the Revised Preferred Approach and the Sustainability Appraisal – June 2015 are invited during the six-week period of public participation from 18 June to 30 July 2015 and must be received by 17:00 on 30 July. Representations can be submitted in any of the following ways: online via <http://consult.essexcc.gov.uk>, by email to mineralsandwastepolicy@essex.gov.uk or in writing to: Minerals and Waste Planning (RPA), Planning and Environment, Essex County Council, Freepost CL 3636, E3 County Hall, Chelmsford, CM1 1XZ.

Please note that consultation responses received will be shared between ECC and SBC as part of their joint working partnership.

Browne hails class as stars engage top gear

Opener says line-up too talented to stay quiet for long time

by Oliver Harbord

oliver.harbord@hertssexnews.co.uk

ESSEX'S all-star line-up was never going to be kept quiet for long according to opener Nick Browne.

The Eagles are currently on their best run of their season, with three wins on the bounce in the NatWest T20 Blast and a draw against Northamptonshire in the County Championship Division Two.

Essex piled on the runs in the first innings of their Championship win over Derbyshire at Chelmsford, in which five batsmen – including Browne – reached half-centuries in their 473 all out.

Browne said: "We have to take massive confidence from the way that we played against Northamptonshire.

"Jesse [Ryder] and Tom [Westley] were brilliant there in saving that game and we took confidence from that as a team. We are starting to play some really good cricket in the T20 as well now, so we have to take it into every game.

"The class that is in this dressing room was never going to be kept quiet for long.

"The players that we have were always going to shine through eventually.

Frustrating

"It was a little frustrating, because we want people to be scoring hundreds, and big hundreds at that.

"It was nice that everyone got in with the bat, but we want people to go on and get those big scores."

One of those that reached 50 was returning England captain Alastair Cook, who made 80 before being bowled by Wes Durston.

He and Browne (60) put on 134 for the first wicket as the Derbyshire bowlers toiled on a decent track.

And Browne admitted he thoroughly enjoyed trying to impress England's all-time leading Test run scorer.

"It was really nice to bat with him," he added.

"He is a hero of mine and of Essex cricket and now of England cricket. It was really enjoyable.

"I loved it, he is obviously a legend and it helped me concentrate a little bit more I think.

HITTING OUT: Nick Browne in action for Essex against Derbyshire at Chelmsford

"It would have been nice to score 100, but that's cricket, you can't do it every week.

"We put ourselves in a great position, and to bowl them out so cheaply in the first innings [148] was fantastic.

"The effort from the guys with the bat has been outstanding.

"The overhead conditions on day one were not really conducive to batting, but Alastair and I got through the new ball nicely and were able to kick on.

"The wicket was a little damp at the beginning, but dried out nicely to create a pretty good batting track.

"It was a decent ball that nipped back on me a little bit. But I have felt like this all season, feeling good until I have actually got out. So I just need to limit the mistakes and go on from there."

Things are going our way at moment

WE have had a great couple of weeks as a club.

The NatWest T20 Blast against Gloucestershire on the Thursday night was brilliant, then to go down and beat Sussex was fantastic.

It has been a long-awaited run of results for us which has now seen us shoot up the South Group, which is brilliant.

I didn't play in the Championship game against Derbyshire, but the boys managed to win it in three days.

The momentum has swung back in our favour, but that is the nature of professional sport.

It ebbs and flows over the season and it is with us at the moment and I am sure we will continue to enjoy it while it does.

I touched on it recently, that if we just stuck to our methods and believed in our ability then things would come good.

BELIEF: One-day skipper Ryan ten Doeschate

Our one-day skipper, Ryan ten Doeschate, really drilled it in to us that he was pleased with what we had been doing, but we had just come out on the bad side of some results in otherwise good games of cricket.

But we have always stuck to our formula and things are starting to turn around for us.

If we can finish strong in the NatWest T20 Blast competition and get in the top four and qualify for the quarter-final, then that will have achieved our original goal.

I did play in my first County Championship game against Northamptonshire.

There was an lbw decision that I felt was out, but the umpire didn't.

I got rather animated about it and was given a level one reprimand.

It happens sometimes with the desire to take wickets, but it was only a level one, so nothing too serious.

This Thursday we travel to Kent for the Battle of the Bridge, before taking on Glamorgan at Chelmsford on Friday.

We want to get wins in both those games so we can carry on the form.

TEN PIN BOWLING: The Harlow Senior Rollers team lost against Collier Row. Harlow went down 8638 pins to 8960 pins. The Harlow scores were Nick Taylor 524, John Bawden 522, Dave Court 500, Jean Taylor 497, Richard Maslin 471, Les Hall 457, Dave Hunter 453, John Ward 427, Joyce Chatterton 417, Steve Calladine 414, Phil Stout 412, Polly Barlow 399, Kay Morgan 396, Kryssia Post 383, Jim Banner 365, Phil George 363, Hugh Rhodes 363, Deb Walker 333, Jacqui Dixon 274 and Bev Banner 266.

Phenomenal Farooq's gr-eight day destroys Belhus

HARLOW Cricket Club's second team gained their second win of the season in straightforward fashion against Belhus on Saturday.

This was the first ever 45 overs match for the second XI as the league match format changed this season.

Star of the show for Harlow was undoubtedly Amir Farooq, who in his first second XI match took eight Belhus wickets for only 23 runs in his nine overs.

Farooq has now taken 25 league wickets this season and currently lies second in wickets taken for the whole of the SNEL.

He was well supported by the other three Harlow bowlers, with Callum Sykes and Luke Monger taking a wicket apiece.

In reply, Harlow rarely looked in trouble, with openers Conor Ramsey (34) and Luke Monger (50no) forging a decent opening partnership.

The Belhus target of 124 was reached with 19 overs remaining.

The third team maintained their 100 per cent record this season with a great victory against Shenfield, taking the final wicket with just four balls remaining.

Simon Baulcomb made the win possible with his fantastic unbeaten 103.

He has now scored centuries in his 20s, 30s, 40s and 50s in his high on 40 years playing for the Marigolds club.

Faisal Javed made 39 and Luke Close 27 as Harlow scored 276.

In reply, Shenfield were always struggling to keep up with the required run-rate.

Soulat Ali (5-81) and Muhammed Naem (4-74) were main wicket takers for Harlow.

This victory now leaves Harlow clear at the top of the league, some 15 points clear of their closest rivals.

The fourth team continued their amazing unbeaten start to the season with another victory against Leigh-on-Sea thirds, which kept them top.

Harlow bowled Leigh-on-Sea out for 159.

Part-time bowlers Sean and Rob Coldwell shared four wickets for 44 runs, while Sarwat Ali (3-75) and Tyler Dobson (3-25) got the other six wickets.

In reply, Harlow started rapidly through openers James Coldwell (16) and Mike Prodder (19). Ken Aldred (38no) and Alex Coldwell (56) steered them towards victory.

They are now 20 points clear of their nearest rivals in the Premier Division table.

Athletics

Zoe leaps forward to English Schools test

Essex gold seals place at Gateshead championships

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

HARLOW'S rising young athletics stars have again made big strides on the regional stage.

Zoe Benton, 16, has qualified for the English Schools Championships, while Will Marklew, 16, sealed a gold medal at the South of England Championships.

Zoe will join Harlow Athletic Club sprinter Shemar Boldiszar and Harlow-based 800m runner Canaan Solomon in the Essex team at the English Schools Championships.

There were also Essex Schools medals for: Kyesha Robinson (junior girls' 200m gold in 26.58sec); Sidnie Ward (gold Year 7 boys' 800m 2min 13.55sec PB); Beth Harryman (silver junior girls' high jump 1.57m PB); Lewis Harknett (bronze junior boys 1500m 4:30 PB); Owen Harknett (bronze junior boys 800m 2:12.08 PB); and Teale Cunningham (bronze junior boys' high jump 1.66 metres PB).

Lewis, Owen, Beth and Teale are Harlow Athletic Club members, while Sidnie and Kyesha belong to clubs outside the town but live and attend school in Harlow.

Superb

Zoe's appearance at the English Schools Championships follows her superb gold medal at the Essex Schools Championships on Saturday.

The Matching Tye youngster, a student at Old Harlow's St Nicholas School, won her 300m hurdles race in a time of 44.74.

Zoe is a member of East Herts-based Herts Phoenix Athletic Club.

Her time in the Essex Schools Championships, which were held at Chelmsford's Melbourne Park Athletic Centre, was a national standard time.

She will now compete in the English Schools Championships in Gateshead later this year.

MARCHING TO GLORY: Zoe Benton in action at Chelmsford in the Essex Schools Championships. (Inset) Will Marklew after his gold medal at the South of England Championships

She also won the 300m hurdles at the Bedford International Games and a gold medal in the 300m at the Essex County Championships. Both these competitions were held in May.

Marklew, meanwhile, continued his fantastic form at the South of England Champs.

The Harlow Athletic Club member was competing against a much older field in the U20 javelin competition.

He set a new personal best (PB) throw of 58.73m, which was eight metres ahead of his nearest rival at North London's Lee Valley Athletic Centre.

As part of his training for the decathlon, Will picked up a PB of 16.5 in the U20 110m hurdles, making the final.

Will said: "I was treating this weekend as a training weekend for decathlon, pitching myself against the best in the South of England."

"I wasn't feeling on top form as I suffer really badly with hay fever, so I was naturally a little disappointed with some of my performances."

"I had some good javelin throws of well over 60m that were just wide, so I know I can fix that ready for next weekend, but taking the title was really pleasing."

Anxiously

Will, who has already won two major U18 decathlon competitions this year, is still anxiously awaiting the UK Athletics selectors' decision later this month on whether he has a place in the World Youth Games in Colombia.

However, his next focus is the England Athletics U20 Championships this coming Saturday where he competes in javelin.

He also competes in the U18 qualifiers for the World and Commonwealth Youth Games trials, also in the javelin event, on Sunday.

Harlow U15s grab West Essex District Cricket Board silverware

Cricket

HARLOW Cricket Club's U15 team triumphed in the final of the West Essex District Cricket Board contest.

Harlow lost the toss and bowled first against close neighbours Epping.

A steady start by Mustafa Shah and Tyler Dobson kept the run rate down.

Mustafa took the first wicket and with Thomas Smith Hughes chipping in with a plum lbw, Epping were 22-2 after seven overs.

After ten overs the score was 40-2.

The introduction of Max Baulcomb, however, turned the game on its head.

In four overs of swing bowling he ripped the middle out of the Epping line-up, taking 5-9.

Epping went from 51-3 to 57 all out in 18 overs.

The boys fielded very well and included a stunning catch in the gully by Jack Melaugh to remove Freddie Knight late in the innings.

Jack Melaugh and Harry Burton got the run rate up to eight an over rapidly, so after just four overs Harlow were over halfway towards the target.

Burton then fell to a smart slip catch.

Melaugh then unleashed some stunning power and smashed Harlow to victory in the tenth over, finishing with a very good 27 not out, including four fours.

This moved Harlow into the quarter-final of the Essex County Cup.

However, opponents Oakfield (195-3) went through to the semi-final after a 47-run victory. Harlow amassed 148-7 (Shah 50).

Earlier, Tyler Dobson 1-32 and Michael Prince 1-38 took wickets.

WINNERS: Harlow U15s

FOR OLD TIMES' SAKE: Players from Crosskeys and Hertford Hornets at the tournament

Crosskeys celebrate Beryl's special day

CROSSKEYS Netball Club joined forces with a rival team to celebrate the 80th birthday of a long serving veteran of the sport.

Over the past four decades Beryl Davy has played, umpired and coached for both Harlow-based Crosskeys and Hertford Hornets.

She has earned the friendship and respect of many players throughout those years.

Players old and new – many donning netball kit for the first time in many years – turned out for a tournament to celebrate her birthday.

Both clubs fielded two teams on the day – Crosskeys Pink and Purple and Hornets Dreamers and 1935s.

The sun shone and all the players, umpires and spectators had a fantastic day.

If the on-court action was not enough, the birthday girl Beryl then laid on food for all the participants to enjoy at the end of the tournament, which was held in Ware.

Duo close in on Gleneagles

ANTHONY HOPKINSON and his Canons Brook PGA Professional Mark Smith are one step away from following in the footsteps of Europe's Ryder Cup heroes with an appearance in the Lombard Trophy final at Gleneagles.

Hopkinson teed up a chance to tread the fairways of the PGA Centenary Course – venue for the dramatic matchplay win over the United States last year – between September 1-2 when he won his club qualifying competition with a nett score of 70.

Hopkinson, who lives in Harlow, plays off a handicap of six.

He and Smith now advance to the regional final at Old Fold Manor Golf Club on June 24, where they will compete against up to 70 other clubs for the chance to secure one of 16 prized spots available for the 36-hole grand final.

The tournament attracts entries from upwards of 700 clubs across Great Britain and Ireland. Lombard originally sponsored the tournament from 1995 to 2006 before returning as headline sponsor in 2013.

The PGA National Pro-Am Championship has a total prize fund of £80,000, with the winning professional at the grand final taking home a cheque for £12,000.

Smith has been a professional at the Harlow golf club for five years.

Seconds out for place in history with derby

Phoenix Park hosts first league clash of Harlow sides

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

HISTORY will be made in Harlow this Saturday when the town's two senior cricket clubs clash in a league match for the first time ever.

Harlow Town's second team play host to Harlow's seconds at Phoenix Park, with both teams battling it out for points in the second XI Division Two of the Shepherd Neame Essex League (SNEL).

The match starts at 1pm at the Elizabeth Way ground.

Harlow Town stalwart Jason Gladwin explained: "It's the first meeting for a number of years between us and Harlow in the SNEL and we are really looking forward to the game."

"It's a chance for both sides to hold the bragging rights for a couple of months and, with both of us having fairly poor starts, a win will push us up the table."

"Harlow have a decent team with a number of ex-first team players such as Luke Monger so both sides should be closely matched."

"The match we be fiercely competitive on the pitch with both sides shaking hands at the end."

The Town second team (130-6) head into the derby in top form after a four-wicket win over West Essex (128) as Paul Morrell took four wickets.

Charlie Coleman blasted a brilliant 50 off 28 balls to see Town home.

The Town first team lost by six wickets against Billericay.

The Phoenix Park men were inserted and openers Ashley Alderson and Shiraz Ali set off at a rapid rate.

Alderson went on a scoring spree, tearing into the Billericay bowlers, cutting, pulling and driving with great authority.

His 40 came off just 30 balls, but he was undone by a good yorker which trapped him in front.

Joe Holland came and went for eight, again trapped lbw and Ali went soon after (5).

Skipper Neil Gladwin (28) and Ramya Upadhyay (48) batted well for a long period.

They departed in quick succession, with Upadhyay run out in bizarre circumstance.

Pat Yates chipped in with 26 as the hosts posted 186-6 off their reduced 46 overs.

The Billericay opening pair got off to a quick start, hitting 38 off seven overs.

Upadhyay took two quick wickets and Billericay found themselves on 78-3.

Lee Knight and captain David Houghton (49) formed a solid partnership which Town struggled to break. They put on 66 before Knight was adjudged lbw for 40.

Billericay required 43 runs when Ross Poulton (32) came in to bat. Poulton and Houghton hit the final runs in just six overs (186-4).

The Town third team (115) capitulated against Fives & Heronians thirds (116-3).

Nick Teale's superb bowling figures of 7-20 saw Town fourths (84-7) destroy Southend-on-Sea fourths (83).

Key defender quits Hawks

THE Hawks have suffered a blow with the news that influential central defender Josh Urquhart has quit.

The defender (pictured above) has moved to Conference South club Wealdstone.

Urquhart has been a rock at the heart of the Harlow Town defence for the last two seasons.

He joined the club in the 2013-14 season.

Striker Billy Jones has also left Harlow after last season's unsuccessful campaign to join Cheshunt.

Meanwhile, three Harlow players got into the Ryman North Team of the Year.

Top scorer Alex Read, skipper Dave Cowley and left-back Layne Eadie were named in the team.

Surprisingly of the two promoted clubs only two players got in – Needham Market skipper Kemal Izzet and Brentwood's Sam Bantick.

AFC Sudbury had four players picked, the most of all the Ryman North clubs.

Harlow have fixed up another pre-season friendly ahead of the 2015-16 campaign.

The Hawks will host Evo-Stik North Premier Division side Kings Lynn Town at the Harlow Arena on Saturday July 11, in memory of Jack Chapman.

Harlow host Newmarket Town on Tuesday July 7.

Capital gains at London Open

Judo

FOUR players from Harlow Judo Club competed in the London Open 2015.

Kane Horsley, ten, Owen Lambert, nine, and Thomas Lambert, 13, all fought magnificently at the University of East London.

Kane went up a weight group and battled hard, but unfortunately did not progress through to the next round.

Owen also went up a weight group and made it into the repechage, only to be beaten to the bronze medal position by a much higher graded player.

Thomas also fought hard and eventually won a well deserved bronze medal in his weight group.

Coaching was provided by Harlow Judo Club head coach Mick Ellis and team manager Alex Hemming.

The pair felt that all three players came across tough opposition in their respective pools but did the club proud fighting in such a high ranking event.

Hemming himself competed the next day in the youth section and fought well to win a bronze medal.

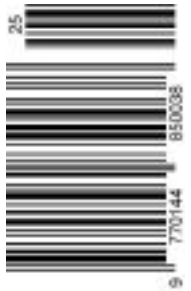

He also fought in the senior section later on in the day, but was unable to medal.

The club is based in Foldcroft, Harlow. For training times, visit www.harlowjudoclub.com or email gillianellis4@yahoo.co.uk or call 07976 955905 for further information.

WORLD QUEST FOR GREAT BRIT

Chiassaro eyes Rio and Doha big tests

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ATHLETE Richard Chiassaro is hitting the best form of his life as he targets success at this year's World Championship in Doha.

The 33-year-old Harlow Athletic Club member is brimming with confidence and has flown to the USA to compete in Indianapolis in the US Nationals Championships next week.

Chiassaro, who has spina bifida, moved up into the top six in the world in his disability rankings after success at the Swiss

National Championships, when competing on what is widely known as one of the fastest tracks in the world.

Chiassaro, of Seymours, will compete in the 100m, 200m, 400m and 800m in the USA, where he is targeting medals.

If he can improve his best or medal in Indianapolis at the US National Championships, he can improve his World ranking even further and move into the top four.

He is determined to qualify for the Great Britain team which will compete in Qatar in October at the World Championships.

This will set him up for the Paralympics in Rio de Janeiro in Brazil next year.

He told the Star: "My world ranking now is sixth and there's hardly anything thing between me and fourth so I'm pleased with how things have gone so far this season."

"My aim is to be selected for the Doha World Champs in October and Rio next year."

Training hard

"I'm just going to keep doing what I am and training hard. I've PBs [personal bests] in all distances this year from 100m at 14.36sec, 200m at 25.36 and 400m at 48.64, which I was most pleased with."

These three times were recorded in the Swiss Championships. "I even PB'd in an 800m with a time of 1min 41.93sec which I had not trained for."

"Racing seems to be going well at the moment, with all the athletes I coach moving up UK rankings."

Chiassaro achieved stunning PBs in the Swiss Nationals in Notwill and at the Daniela Jutzel meeting in Arbon.

His 100m and 200m times rank him in the top six in the world listings.

He added: "I'm really happy with my performance in Switzerland as it was 31 degrees so it did take it out of me."

Harlow Athletic Club coach Paul Bailey said: "Richard has been a leading light at HAC for many years and an inspiration to us all the club, we are so proud of his achievements."

Chiassaro also won a silver medal with his basketball team, the Chelmsford-based Essex Outlaws, as they finished third in their Premier League and qualified for the European Championships.

Heroics in vain as Harlow lose

Shepherd Neame Essex
League Division One

Hornchurch ..... 293-6
Harlow ..... 221
Hornchurch won by 72 runs

NICKY BAXTER is more well known for his bowling than his batting, but he produced a fantastic rearguard action at Hornchurch on Saturday.

However, his 67 runs were still in vain as the hosts and Division One promotion favourites' massive 293 in 50 overs proved far too much.

Harlow were asked to bowl first on an overcast morning.

Opening attack Mustanser Meraj and Baxter bowled well but without making the breakthrough their bowling deserved.

Paul Murray gave Harlow a chance off Baxter in his mid-20s but was dropped, and this proved to be extremely costly for Harlow as he went on to make an impressive 112.

Jamie Sorrell went for 41, after Tom Ryder had been introduced to the fray, the opener chipping a straightforward catch to skipper Rehman Ahmed.

Rapid

Max Osborne hit three huge consecutive sixes in his rapid 29 as Hornchurch finished their innings on 293-6.

Spinner Tom Ryder took 3-41 in his ten overs while his spin twin Ross Vasani also impressed with 2-57 from his ten overs.

Harlow's batting line-up were up against one of the best attacks in the league, with quickie Osborne, a former Essex county player, leading the Hornchurch attack.

The Harlow openers defied this sharp edge by putting on a stand of 44 before Alan Jones was out, caught for 19.

Hafiz Yawar went on to make 37 before being trapped lbw by Taqi Abbas.

Wickets then fell regularly. John Perry made 21 before Baxter produced a fantastic knock to accelerate the score.

But once Baxter was dismissed, caught on the boundary, it realistically ended Harlow's chances of winning and the visitors finished on 221 all out with five overs remaining.

Harlow are home to second-from-bottom Upminster this Saturday. Harlow lie sixth in the ten-team table but only 13 points clear of their opponents.
